Visiting Nurse Drive Lagging

Officers and directors of the Visiting Nurse Assn. of Andover, Inc., at their first annual meeting Tuesday night expressed concern because the returns in the present drive have not come up to expectations.

While this is typical of all recent drives it was brought out that while the valuable services given by the nurse are appreciated by many, there will have to be more substantial support of the project if the services are to be continued.

The drive to date has been successful in obtaining more than 200 new members but many of those who joined last year have yet to be heard from.

The report of the nominating committee submitted by Will G. Brown was accepted and the following officers elected: President, Irving J. Whitcomb; vice presidents, Anna O. Butler and John N. Cole 2nd., treasurer, Eugene A. Bernardin Jr., clerk, Mrs. R. D. Mayo.

It was decided to have the drive continue under the direction of Edward A. Romeo, chairman, but it will be by personal contact of the directors and members of the Andover Service club.

Do You Know
Massachusetts?

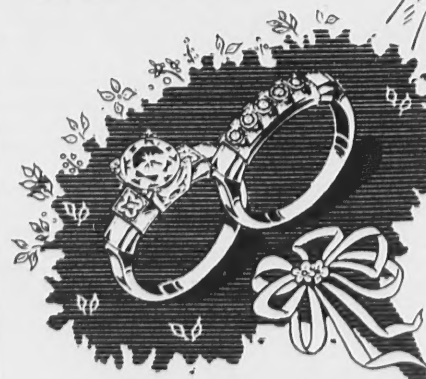

DO YOU KNOW THAT... Records uncovered in Norway apparently fix as fact the early settlement of Martha's Vineyard by Norsemen. In the year 1006 it was known as Straumey Stream island... Excavation work on the Vineyard also is certifying the early presence of Norse settlers... Lynn, with an average of $72.15 weekly wage earnings per factory worker in February, stood highest among the 36 Massachusetts industrial centers reported by the department of labor and industries; Beverly with $71.87 was second, and Worcester with $71.20 was third... Massachusetts cities and towns, as of last October, had 26.6 municipal employees per 1,000 inhabitants, the sixth largest ratio among the 48 states. In state employees the commonwealth averaged 7.6 per 1,000 inhabitants, 29th among the states, and in federal civilian employees 12.6 per 1,000 inhabitants or 15th among the states... The City of Boston in 1950 collected $1,120,588 motor vehicle excise taxes for the current year and $989,050 for earlier years...

In the half-mile the Punchard team of Kelsey, Hathaway, Abercrombie and Fiedler finished second to Belmont which was forced to a new record of 1 m. 36 s. to win.

PUNCHARD 8, JOHNSON 7

Scoring three runs in the last half of the ninth Punchard managed to pull out an 8 to 7 victory over Johnson High of North Andover on the local playstead Monday after the game seemed lost.

Punchard twice had to come from behind to get its sixth win of the season. Johnson had a 5 to 0 lead when the local team came to bat in the sixth when a combination of four bases on balls, two steals home and a couple of hits enabled them to tie the score.

Johnson went ahead again in the seventh by scoring two runs and held the lead until the ninth when a rally, climaxed by a single from the bat of Capt. Scott Gerish, accounted for three runs.

Maybe Diesel Interest You

"Hello, Stranger!" Bill greeted a mutual friend as he joined us on the 8:08. "We haven't had the pleasure of your company aboard for some time."

Our friend laughed. "My car is in the shop for a ring and re-boring job. It'll be out of commission the rest of the week, I guess. So I'm back on the good old B and M."

"If you had any sense," said Bill, "you'd be on the B and M every day, — and get reliable transportation!"

"Well," said the fellow defensively, "on my job, I have to have a car most of the time — and any engine has to be overhauled once in awhile. I'll bet even the B and M diesels have to go to the shop once a year or so."

"Once a year!" Bill snorted. (He's a walking encyclopedia of railroad information — and he loves to dispense it.) "Every B and M diesel goes into the shop every day, and is checked over thoroughly — sand box filled, clean oil and air filters put in, fueled and watered. Then after a certain number of miles it goes in for new piston rings."

"And that puts it out of circulation for 3 or 4 days, eh?" our friend observed hopefully.

"Just about two hours!" said Bill, with a withering glance. "Of course, they don't change all the pistons at once. They haul out two at each visit to the shop. Liner and all comes out of the cylinder, and a new cylinder liner with a piston already fitted to it is put in. That's efficiency, eh?"

"The engines are sixteen-cylinder, and two opposite pistons are changed at once. So after eight trips to the shop you've got practically a new engine — all new rings and pistons and what amounts to a re-boring job too. Pretty smart way to operate."

"Sure is," said our friend. "It certainly makes for dependability."

"And in the Bible of the B and M," said Bill, as the conductor punched his ticket, "dependability is second only to carefulness. Eh, Skipper?"

"Amen!" nodded the conductor.

Parking Area Needed

It is becoming more and more evident that the town will have to provide a free parking area near the shopping center for the large number of people who have to use an automobile daily in their business.

Because of its ready means of transportation either in going to and from business or getting about town to see customers, the automobile to them has passed beyond the luxury stage. It is now a matter of necessity.

The parking meters have driven them from the busier arteries to quieter streets adjoining the business center, but here they have posed a problem for residents. The installation of more parking meters, as on Punchard avenue, only crowds them back to the next convenient street and in a short time the residents there voice objections to their presence.

The selectmen are not unaware of this trying condition. They have been making a study of the situation for some time and although no immediate location looms up before them as an answer to the problem, they are still giving their consideration to several possible solutions.

Excess money obtained from the town's parking meters can be used to purchase land for a parking area. By the time of the next town meeting it is expected that some recommendation will be forthcoming which will provide motorists with a free parking area near their places of business and at the same time relieve nearby streets of their present congestion.

A Real Luxury

Someone once said that smoking in bed is a luxury which should be pursued only by people who can afford to build new homes every so often.

It could be added that it is also a good practice for those who are eager to see what the next world looks like as soon as possible. It has been the cause not only of thousands of home fires but of disasters which have resulted in a ghastly toll of death and injury.

Moreover, this source of fire is typical of the fact that a great majority of fires are unnecessary. Flammable junk stored in the attic or in closets, frayed electric cords, failure to make regular inspection of heating appliances which carry a heavy load in cold weather are personal matters for every householder.

Many causes of fire are simple to detect and correct. It's your job, and it's your life and property that's at stake.

We agree with the American Legion that our schools need to do a better job of teaching real Americanism. . . . We think our youngsters can stand some instruction in the forgotten virtues of thrift and independence instead of on government security and handouts for all. Ft. Lauderdale (Fla.) News.

INTERNATIONAL WHIRLIGIG — By John Fisher

Russia Has Problems That Dictate Caution

Up to now the governments of the free world have been paralyzed by the fear that some impulsive move by them would cause the Soviet Union to start World War III.

This apprehension has been Stalin's secret weapon. It has given him the initiative in the war of nerves and in repeated aggressions.

The critical situation in Korea may compel the United Nations to take retaliatory action against the Manchurian sanctuary and Red China proper—even at the risk of bringing Russia into the fighting there and in Europe.

The bold concept—expounded by General MacArthur and other strong men—that victory against world communism is more important than terror-haunted, mark time peace, is being discussed as never before, not only in Washington but now even in London, Paris and Bonn.

This new "stand-up-to-dictators" attitude is based on the belief that the Russian aim is the ultimate slavery of the free world and the obliteration of the United States, the backbone of the anti-communist alliance.

Those of that opinion question whether Stalin would plunge into a world conflict which he could never win, in order to save Mao from punishment. For in a global war the United States might concentrate its main effort in Europe and the Middle East and leave China's manpower relatively unhamed.

Stalin Will Not Count Ruin

Even if the Soviet Union got the best of things in Europe, it would be drained dry—its cities in ashes, its soldiers slain—and a comparatively unscathed Red China—greedy and aggressive like Red Russia—would become the dominant Communist world power. Crafty Stalin does not seem to be such a fool as to ruin his own crowd for the sake of his rival, Mao Tse-tung.

Statesmen, who calculate that Moscow will not fight in Europe to bail out Peiping, also argue that the main reason why Russia will not take on the Allies is that the Soviet Union—despite big gains made by its various plans—is still too feeble for a protracted war against the entire free world with its enormous manpower and industrial potential. Their guess may be wrong. But certain facts add weight to their case.

Stalin in 1946, in describing why Hitler was defeated, pointed out that the German dictator was too late in concentrating on heavy industry and on the collectivization of agriculture that was necessary to support both industrial workers and soldiers. So the Moscow boss has tried to speed up his own assembly lines and crop output—goals so far attained are not great enough for the strain of a long war.

Farmers Not Performing

Even the collectivization and the whip-lash of the state, Russian farm areas under cultivation are less than in prewar times. In 1950 acreage was 50 per cent larger than the previous year but crops were about the same.

Drought accounted for some of the decline. Non-cooperation by the peasantry was another reason. The individual farmer must deliver a fixed quota. "To cover the law" the grower often sends in unripe or moistened grain or conceals stones in grain sacks to increase weight. In the rush of mass delivery, these deceptions often escape the notice of over-worked bureaucrats.

Tractors are insufficient—about one per 500 acres of cultivated land—grain elevators are scarce. These several drawbacks mean that food reserves for a huge army are low and cannot be increased adequately when peasants are mobilized as soldiers.

A basic strength of the huge Soviet army is supposed to be its armor. Tanks have great value and great limitations. An armored force cannot "live off the country" like an old-fashioned army. Its machines require spare parts and gasoline.

Red forces might seize a few enemy oil dumps, getting bombed in the process, but such captures would yield little in a long conflict. Two motor trucks for supplies, including oil, are needed to keep one tank in the field. U. S. lend-lease trucks maintained the Red army far from home on the German front. Soviet truck production is four times greater than then—but still not enough for years of battles.

Oil Is a Serious Weakness

Dearth of oil is the most crippling enemy weakness. It explains why Moscow is trying so hard to use electric power as a substitute in stationary industry. Russia's Caucasian wells and refineries are accessible to A-bombing. Fields seized in the Middle East would present similar targets, besides pipelines run at right angles to the Soviet Union. Transportation facilities including tankers, are either few or would be exposed to allied naval or aerial blows.

The oil shortage also constrains the new Red subs from preying on Allied commerce in the Atlantic. Unless Sweden or Turkey were captured, the pair could bottle up submarines in the Baltic and Black Sea, respectively. Even were the two nations lost, mine-laying planes could still plug the straits. Nazi aircraft made the English Channel too hot for British shipping.

In Asia the Vladivostok naval base is ice-bound for months each year. Dairies are poorly located and within range of U. S. aircraft carriers.

The Russians have been building three 37,000-ton battleships at Leningrad since 1937—re-changing designs from time to time to meet modern conditions. These could be sealed off by Allied sea-air effort. Such a blockade kept Hitler's mighty Bismark from the trade route and the Tirpitz from ever firing a shot.

Logic Would Dictate Caution

Without a navy Russia would be handicapped in severing Allied supply lines and in keeping resourceful, daring America—the world's greatest amphibian power—from eventually launching attacks on future "Omaha Beaches" in one or two vulnerable gateways to the far-flung Soviet empire—factors of prime importance in a struggle that night last for years.

These agricultural, industrial and naval short-comings are Soviet liabilities. So is the uncertainty of puppets and various unsympathetic republics, in a union in which the Russians are only one element, and even the uncertainty of disgruntled Russians, themselves.

The Kremlin gambler may still strike. But there is logic against such action as there are reasons for being so afraid of Russia that we allow her to make further gains in the so-called cold war period—gains that would hurt us in the final war that the Soviet rulers plan.

Apology Due

TWO men had spent a joyous evening together in town, and with the generosity occasioned by good cheer one insisted on taking the other home with him.

They caught the last train to Weybridge. On reaching that town they found no conveyance at the station to help them farther on their way, so they set out on foot.

After walking for half an hour, the host stopped and, turning to his friend, said: "George, old man, I'm sorry. I must 'pologize."

"Not at all, Harry, not at all," replied his friend. "Had a glorious evening."

To which Harry retorted: "Yes, George, must 'pologize. Fact is, we moved last week: We're living at Wimbledon now."
